

understand the courage and sacrifice and ideals of the other. This is the greatest political task of the future. For such a complete and lasting understanding is the only basis for the continued progress of civilization. I am proud to be associated in your thought, Mr. Mayor, with so fitting and happy an occasion, and only physical inability could cause absence.

Sincerely,

WALTER H. PAGE.

Page's improvement was only temporary; a day or two after this letter was written he began to sink rapidly; it was therefore decided to grant his strongest wish and take him to North Carolina. He arrived in Pinehurst on December 12th, so weak that his son Frank had to carry him in his arms from the train.

"Well, Frank," said Page, with a slightly triumphant smile, "I did get here after all, didn't I?"

He lingered for a few days and died, at eight o'clock in the evening, on December 21st, in his sixty-fourth year. He suffered no pain. He was buried in the Page family plot in the Bethesda Cemetery near Aberdeen.

He was as much of a war casualty as was his nephew Allison Page, who lost his life with his face to the German machine guns in Belleau Wood.

THE END

APPENDIX

SCRAPS FROM UNFINISHED DIARIES

PAGE was not methodical in keeping diaries. His documents, however, reveal that he took many praiseworthy resolutions in this direction. They include a large number of bulky books, each labelled "Diary" and inscribed with the year whose events were to be recorded. The outlook is a promising one; but when the books are opened they reveal only fragmentary good intentions. Entries are kept up for a few days, and then the work comes to an end. These volumes contain many scraps of interesting writing, however, which are worth preserving; some of them are herewith presented in haphazard fashion, with no attempt at order in subject matter.

1913

PETHERICK

TO: THE PILOT
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

FROM: THE ENGLISH SPEAKING UNION (949 3555)

Headline: THE HISTORY OF WALTER HINES PAGE LIVES ON !

BY CHUCK LUNNEY
Special to The Pilot

Following the three-part series about one of Moore County's most prominent citizens, Walter Hines Page, that has appeared in the PILOT over the past several weeks, it is interesting to note that there is an organization here in the Sandhills that is keeping the spirit of his devotion to the English language alive and strong.

Walter Hines Page who spent much of his life fostering the vitality of the English language through both the written and vocal form is continuously honored and recognized annually by the English Speaking Union WALTER HINES PAGE SCHOLARSHIP.

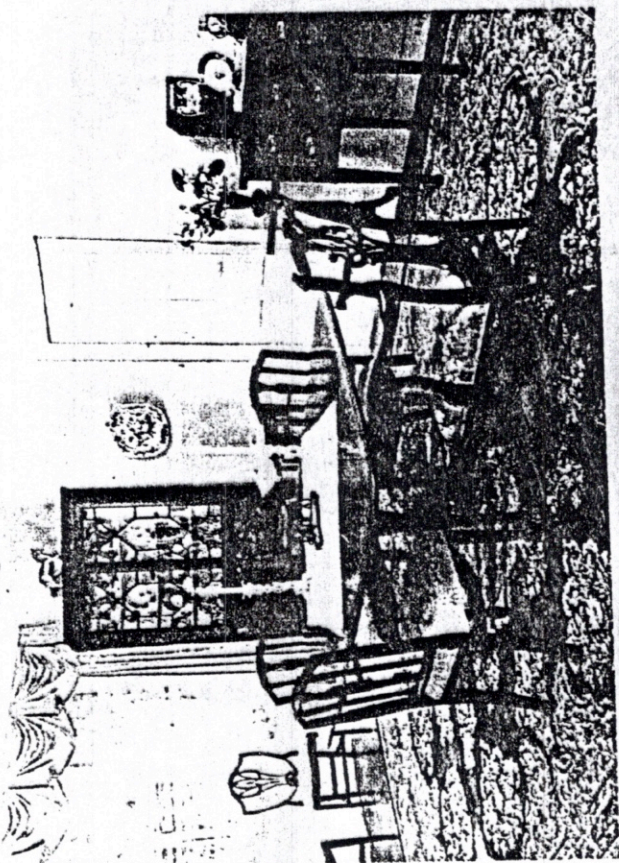

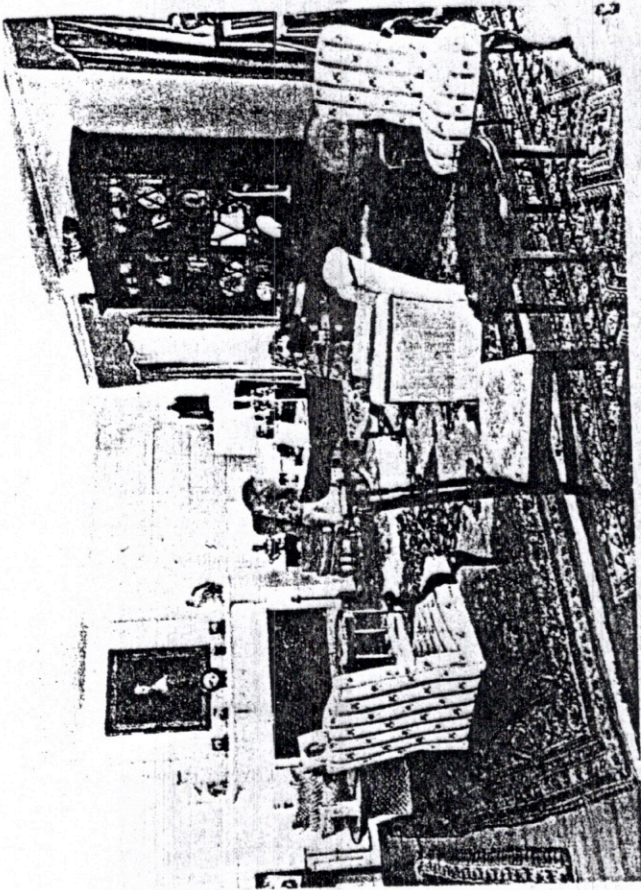

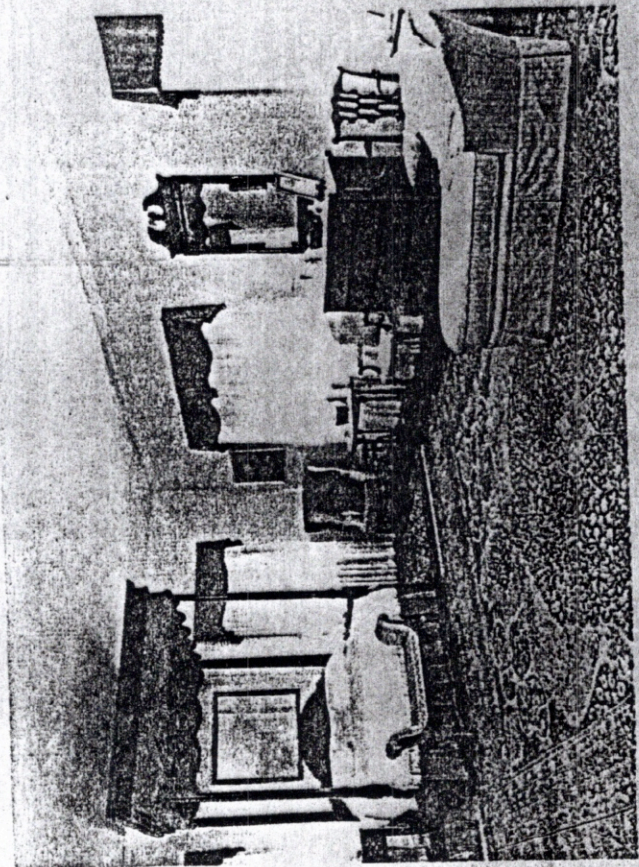

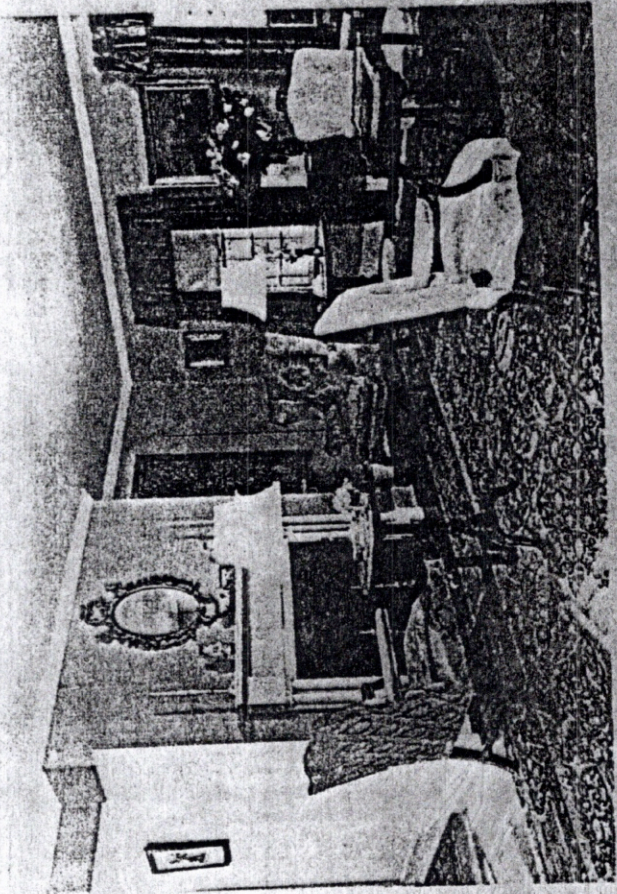

Of the eighty branches of the English Speaking Union throughout the United States, the local Sandhills branch has the distinction of sending the only American Page Scholar to study in the United Kingdom. This scholarship programme is named after Page, a native son of Moore County, who served as the U.S. Ambassador to the United Kingdom during World War I. The Page Scholarship programme was developed to promote the exchange of knowledge between British and American educators. The award winning Scholars have the opportunity to study and compare the British educational system relevant to his/her professional responsibilities. The Walter Hines Page Scholarship award is worth $3000.00, and will cover all major expenses associated with the three-week educational tour in the United Kingdom.

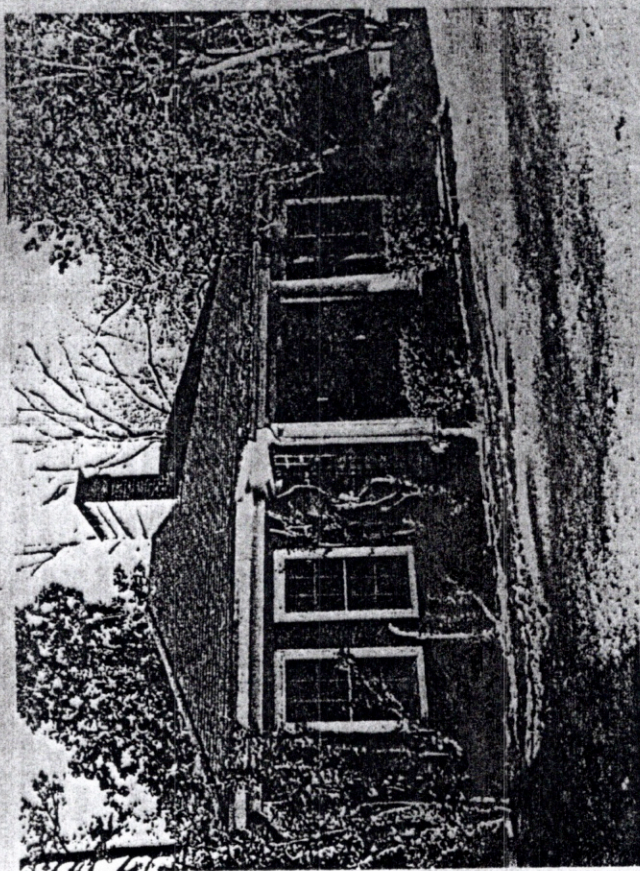

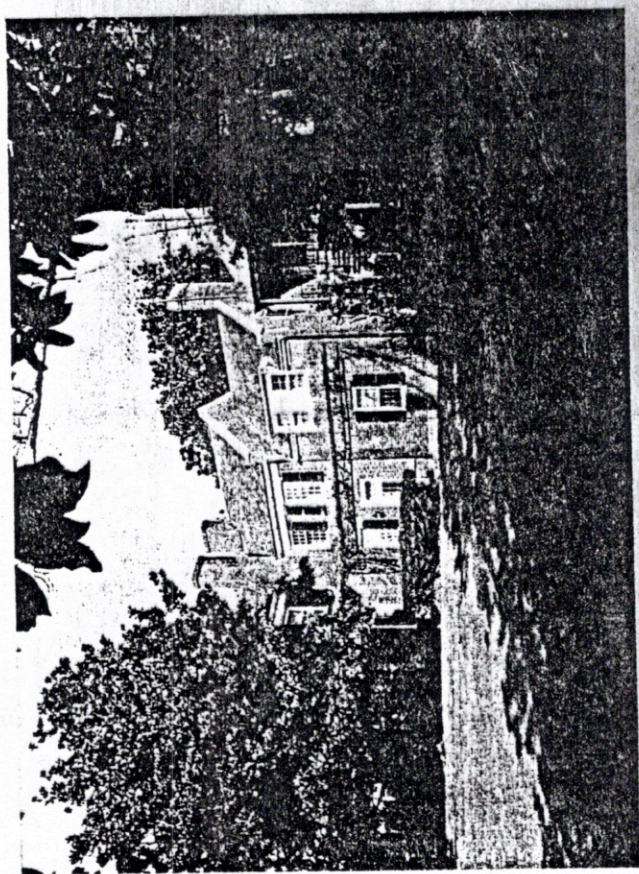

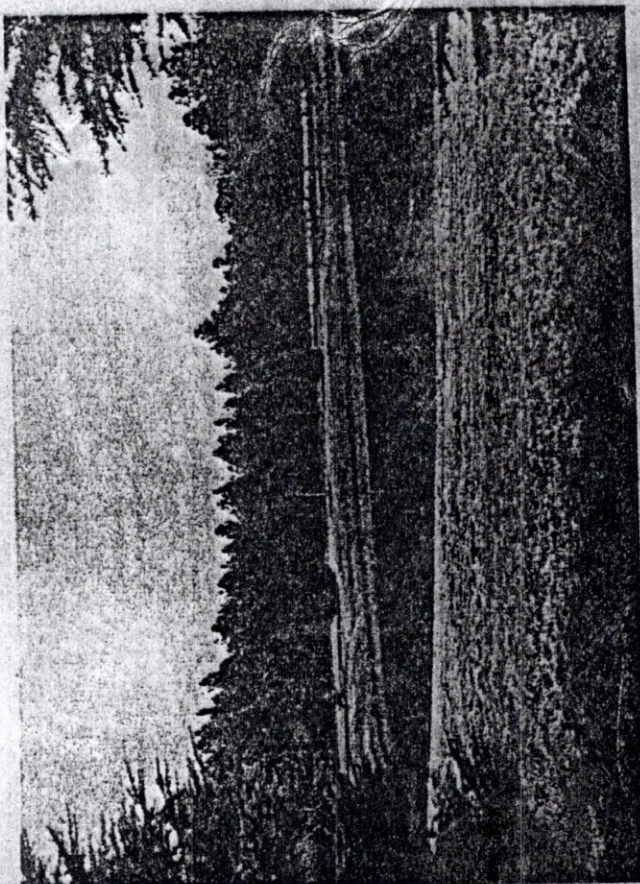

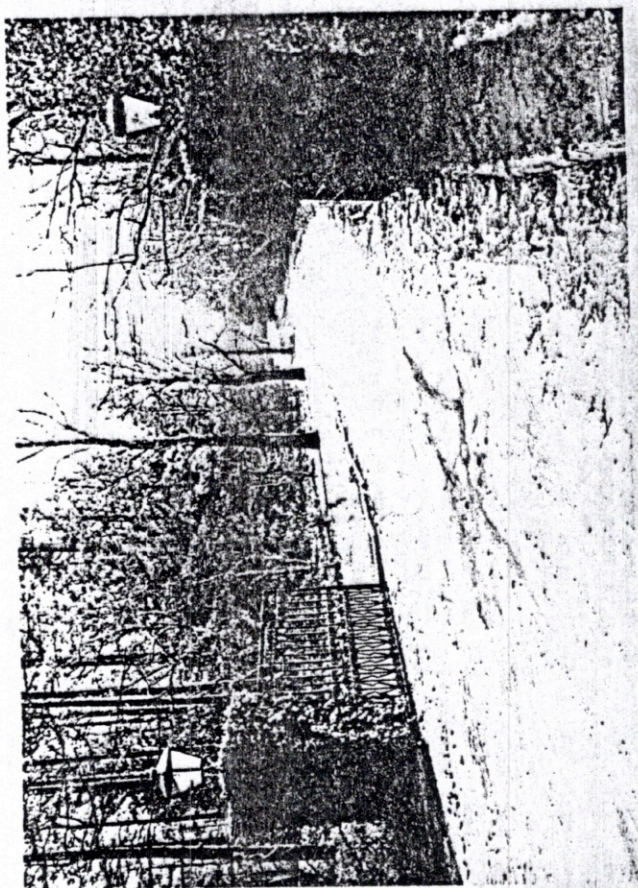

Nancy M. Olson if Pinehurst is the 2003 winner of the Walter Hines Page Scholarship to study in England this summer. Olson is an Associate Professor of English at Sandhills Community College, where she teaches British and American Literature, Expository Writing, and Argument-based research. On her upcoming trip in June, Olson plans to visit Wordsworth's Lake District, Arthurian country, London-based literary sites and several archaeological sites of Anglo-Saxon and Viking periods. Olson holds a Bachelor and Master degrees from The Pennsylvania State University and post-graduate coursework at Cornell and the University of Strasbourg, France. Olson stated that she wanted to win this scholarship "to have the opportunity to have the first-hand experiences and gain knowledge of literary, cultural, and historic sites that relate to the courses I teach and will make them more real and vivid for my students"

$850,000. -
1984

HOLLYCREST
Pinehurst, North Carolina

HOLLYCREST Pinehurst, North Carolina

Hollycrest is a classic estate on more than 48 acres near Pinehurst Village in the Sandhills of North Carolina. Country English two story brick describes the main house in practical terms. Gracious living in elegant surroundings of beauty and old world charm are more esoteric terms that accurately describe the feeling one gets when entering the house. Oak floors, marble mantles, large rooms, high ceilings and elegant appointments at every turn mark this as a luxury home in every respect.

Ponds, gardens with brick walls, brick walkways, wrought iron gates, fountains, terraces and elaborate landscaping are all elements that go toward making this a true estate. Add to that a guest house, a caretaker's cottage, a stable and paddock, and a bath house and you have an estate of grand proportion.

Pinehurst was established more than 80 years ago as a resort haven for those attempting to escape the harsh northern winters. The natural beauty of the Sandhills attracted many people from America's first families over the years, plus those who simply enjoy the varied life of a complete recreational and social community. Hollycrest was carved out of the premier area surrounding Pinehurst. The main house was built in 1923 and a major addition added in 1960. The main house has been updated several times as have the guest cottage and caretaker's house.

Pinehurst today retains the same sense of natural charm and oldtime ease, recapturing a lifestyle from an era long gone but not forgotten. You find that quality in the Village of Pinehurst with its shaded, winding lanes, quaint shops, elegant tea houses and restaurants and friendly folks. There are six golf courses at Pinehurst and the No. 2 is the backdrop for the World Golf Hall of Fame. There are twenty-seven top rated championship courses in Moore County. Tennis is given the same sort of serious attention as golf. Pinehurst has expanded to 24 courts and is the home of the American Tennis Institute. Pinehurst is a place like no other, where Grand Prix horses continue to train for the next event, and good living has become a great tradition.

$850,000

TABLE OF FACTS

Main House - 5,000 + square feet
5 Bedrooms, 4 Baths
5 Fireplaces

Kitchen - 17' x 18' 7"
Butler's Pantry - 14' 8" x 3' 10"
Office - 11' 1" x 8' 2"
Entrance Foyer - 13' 4" x 19' 10"
Living Room - 29' 2" x 18' 10"
Dining Room - 20' 4" x 12' 8"
Porch - 22' x 14'
Owner's Bedroom - 13' 9" x 13' 4"
Owner's Bath - 9' 6" x 3' 5"
Sitting Room - 13' 5" x 15' 2"
Separate Entrance Foyer - 12' 2" x 6' 3"
Upstairs Bedroom - 14' 11" x 19' 6"
Maid's Quarters - 19' 2" x 8' 4"
Maid's Bath - 5' x 3'
Upstairs Foyer - 13' 8" x 15' 3"
Upstairs Bedroom - 14' 5" x 12' 5"
Upstairs Sitting Room - 15' 6" x 20' 10"
Upstairs Dressing Room - 6' 3" x 5'
Upstairs Bath - 7' 10" x 8'
Arte room to Upstairs Sitting Room - 13' 10" x 7' 11"
Upstairs Master Bedroom - 26' 6" x 18' 3"

Guest House - 1,200 square feet
2 Bedrooms - one bath
Living Room
Kitchen
Porch

Caretaker's House - 1,800 square feet
Two Bedrooms
Nursery
Living Room - Dining Area
Kitchen
One Bath
Two screened porches
Partial basement

Garage - 662 square feet
Concrete floor
Solid brick walls
Water closet
Overhead doors
Electricity

Attached Carport - 673 square feet
Stable

Closed area - 588 square feet
Covered area - 420 square feet

Storage House
Implement Shed
Tool Shed

Well House

Bath House - 313 square feet
Covered porch - 150 square feet
Concrete Pad - 50 square feet

Dog and Peacock Pens

Lake - 2 acres with fountain
Acreage - 48.11

Taxes - 1984 - $1,868.34

Zoning - A-5

Access - The Raleigh-Durham (75 miles) and Fayetteville (45 miles) airports are convenient and served by such major airlines as Eastern, United, Delta and Piedmont. A commuter airline with regularly scheduled flights services Moore County Airport, just four miles away. It is available to private aircraft.

Driving Directions - From the north, take I-85 to US 1 to N.C. 2.

From the west, take I-40 to US 220 to N.C. 211.

From the south, take I-95 to US 15-501. All the roads above lead to Pinehurst.

NOTE: The above property data, although believed to be accurate, is not guaranteed by the listing Realtor. Offering subject to error, omissions, changes or withdrawals without notice or prior sale.

Property Representatives:

Merv Brock, Broker

Office: (404) 321-1955

Res: (404) 491-1623

Phillip T. Withers, IV
Select Properties, Charlotte, N.C.

Office: (704) 364-3032

Myriad Properties, Inc.

"Like the Stars in the Heavens, Myriad Covers the South"

1936-A North Druid Hills Road, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30319 • (404) 321-1955

THE UNITED KINGDOM WALTER HINES PAGE SCHOLAR VISITS THE SANDHILLS BRANCH OF THE ENGLISH-SPEAKING UNION

Mrs. Janet Pentelow of North Yorkshire, United Kingdom visited the Sandhills (Pinehurst) Branch of the English - Speaking Union on March 30 through April 1, 2003. Mrs. Pentelow's focus for her two week trip through the Southeast was studying the American educational system in contrast to the British system as it relates to teaching pre-school aged visually-impaired children, including children with multiple disabilities. During Pentelow's visit to North Carolina, the local ESU branch accompanied her to the Governor Morehead School for the Blind in Raleigh, and then to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to meet with Dr. Deborah Hatton of the FPG Child Development Institute. Dr. Hatton, a leading national authority on teaching children with visual and multiple physical disabilities, is currently developing the most comprehensive training program ever produced for this area of specialized teaching. On a local basis, Mrs. Pentelow visited a pre-school program at Southern Pines Primary School and then toured the Sandhills Children Center. During a reception at the Carolina Hotel, Pentelow thanked the ESU Board of Directors for hosting the first leg of her programme tour. It is her first trip to America, where she sampled southern cuisine, including grits and iced tea. She indicated that hot tea would continue to be her beverage of choice.

Operating since 1924, the mission of the Walter Hines Page Scholarship is to provide information and knowledge sharing between British and American educators in their respective educational interests. Walter Hines Page, a native son of Moore County, and American Ambassador to Great Britain during World War I, would be very pleased that his legacy has produced an enlightened exchange of ideas and knowledge among scholars for nearly eighty years. The English-Speaking Union (Sandhills branch) has over 300 members and promotes scholarship and advancement of knowledge through the use of English in an expanding world.

Name:	Walter Hines Page
Birth Date:	August 15, 1855
Death Date:	December 21, 1918
Place of Birth:	Cary, North Carolina, United States
Place of Death:	Pinehurst, North Carolina, United States
Nationality:	American
Gender:	Male
Occupations:	journalist, diplomat

Encyclopedia of World Biography on Walter Hines Page

The American journalist and diplomat Walter Hines Page (1855-1918) edited several distinguished periodicals and served as ambassador to Great Britain during World War I.

Born in Cary, N.C., on Aug. 15, 1855, Walter Hines Page was educated at Trinity College (now Duke), Randolph-Macon College, and Johns Hopkins University (1871-1878), concentrating his study on the Greek classics. He began his journalistic career in St. Joseph, Mo., as editor of the Gazette (1880-1881). He then published a series of articles based on travels in the South and the West, some appearing in the New York World.

In 1883 Page returned to the South, hoping to help modernize the region, but his editorial advocacy of social and political reforms in the State Chronicle of Raleigh, N.C. (1883-1885), aroused local animosity and he went back to New York. As editor of the Forum (1891-1895), Atlantic Monthly (1898-1899), and the World's Work (1900-1913), he became known as a leader of reform.

He helped develop the publishing house of Doubleday, Page and Company in 1899.

Page was one of the earliest political supporters of Woodrow Wilson, and this led to his appointment as ambassador to Great Britain in 1913. He rapidly won the respect and affection of British leaders. After World War I broke out, however, he became estranged from the president. Wilson was an assiduous exponent of neutrality and mediation; Page, convinced of Germany's war guilt, favored diplomatic and economic assistance to the Allies. Occasionally his dealings with British statesmen blunted Wilson's policies. Page strongly criticized the president's measured response to the Lusitania sinking of 1915 and opposed the peace mission of Edward M. House in 1916.

When the United States entered the war in 1917, Page immediately urged extensive aid for the Allies, particularly naval and financial assistance. Pleased that his country had finally taken steps he deemed essential, Page remained critical and suspicious of Wilson. In Washington his extensive correspondence was generally dismissed as Anglophile propaganda. Plagued by ill health, the ambassador stayed

Search: ResearchSearch tipsHome > Browse > Article Print this article.

Page, Walter Hines

PAGE, WALTER HINES

[Page, Walter Hines]

1855-1918, American journalist and diplomat, b. Cary, N.C. He became (1880) a reporter for the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette and wrote a series of articles on the problems of the South. In 1883 he secured control of the Raleigh (N.C.) State Chronicle and crusaded for reforms in Southern agriculture, education, and industry. He was editor of the Forum (1890-95) and then of the Atlantic Monthly (1896-99). After hebecame (1899) a partner in the publishing firm of Doubleday, Page and Company, he founded (1900) the magazine World's Work, which he edited until he was appointed (1913) U.S. ambassador to Great Britain by President Woodrow Wilson. He did much to improve Anglo-American relations, but his outspoken sympathetic attitude toward the Allied cause in World War I brought a rift between him and Wilson, who was striving to maintain strict American neutrality.

Bibliography: See study by Ross Gregory (1970).

Browse by alphabet:

 BELLSOUTH
*The Real
Yellow Pages®*

Find out what
Real Search Engine
Solutions™ from BellSouth can do
for your business

Author not available, PAGE, WALTER HINES., The Columbia Encyclopedia, Sixth Edition 2006

The Columbia Encyclopedia, Sixth Edition. Copyright 2006 Columbia University Press

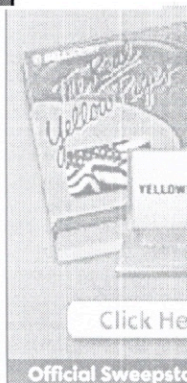

Related articles from HighBeam Research

Find newspaper and magazine articles plus images and maps related to "Page, Walter Hines" at HighBeam.

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Page, Walter Hines

The Concise Oxford Companion to American Literature;
1/1/1986; James D. Hart; 109 words

Need more res
More informati